

File Transformer

Helping to make digital course content more accessible for all

Providing course files in multiple formats gives students more flexibility to choose how they engage with the content and learn. With Ally File Transformer, students can convert their digital materials into a range of alternative formats designed to work better with assistive technologies, mobile devices, and study tools.

As an extension of Anthology Ally, the File Transformer has allowed students to download more than 33,000 alternative formats that best suit their learning preferences. This resource is available through Blackboard Assist, helping students succeed by connecting them with the institutional resources and services for quick easy access within their Learning Management System (LMS).
